The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s misconduct and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper and finds Aunt Polly fuming. She tells him about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly suggests that Tom be skipped school that afternoon and go on an errand, but Tom’s half-brother, Ben, offers to do it for him.

Tom goes out of the house into the alley behind the house. He feels the air hissing and whistling. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom and the new arrival, Mark Twain, are introduced to each other and eventually chased the newcomer all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of marble. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.

Tom comes home at supper. His mother, Mary Lamplighter, says, “Well, well, Tom Sawyer!” It’s obvious that Tom has been skipping school that afternoon and engaging in all sorts of mischief. Aunt Polly is satisfied.

Tom goes out of the house to play. He and Becky Thatcher are watching Tom's adventures. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom and Becky eventually meet Huckleberry Finn. Tom’s well-being is a concern for Aunt Polly, who arranges for the young man to take Tom on a trip up the Mississippi River. Tom eagerly accepts the offer and eventually chooses the newcomer as the way home.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing as a favor for a “share alley,” a kind of money. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

The Internal Family Systems Model (IFS) is an integrative approach to individual psychotherapy developed by Richard C. Schwartz. It combines systems thinking with the view that mind is made up of relatively discrete subpersonalities each with its own viewpoint and qualities. IFS uses family systems theory to understand how these collections of subpersonalities are organized.
