The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with ink, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's mischievous and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime and tells his aunt that he has been stopped at school for experimenting on a boy. Aunt Polly says that he should be skipped school that afternoon and sent to keep the bean fields that his father is still away from.

Tom and the new arrival of Roxy make much ado about nothing at the house. Tom goes out of the house and jumps onto the back of a sheep that is to be sheared. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom and the new arrival of Roxy sense that something is amiss. Tom catches the news that all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitenew the fence. Tom, who has a knack for trouble, decides to play a prank. As Tom tries to get Tom to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white away," a kind of nettle, Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his toils.
